Dear Publisher,

Thank you for your attention to the enclosed submission. This manuscript is based on research at the University of Kentucky that was funded in whole or in part by the National Institutes of Health (NIH). It is therefore subject to the mandatory NIH Public Access Policy (see <http://publicaccess.nih.gov/policy.htm>), which stipulates that the final, peer-reviewed manuscript must be deposited with the PubMed Central (PMC) database upon final acceptance for publication, and must be made publicly accessible no later than 12 months after publication.

In order to ensure compliance with this policy and to be sure that copyrights are addressed appropriately, we ask you to take one of the following three actions:

- (1) You, as the publisher, submit the article directly to PubMed Central after acceptance. In this case, we can work with your standard publication contract and need only ask to be informed when submission is complete so that the required reference number that must be used in subsequent NIH applications can be obtained.
- (2) The publication contract sent to the article author, when and if the manuscript is accepted for publication, include language that allows the author to retain the right to grant a license to the NIH for PubMed Central deposit. Please indicate clearly if you have any requirements about when, within the allowable 12-month period, the article can be made publicly available through PMC. We will deposit the article with PMC.
- (3) If the necessary language is not part of your standard publication agreement or copyright transfer, please include this additional wording, which is suggested by the NIH:

"The Journal acknowledges that Author retains the right to provide a copy of the final manuscript to the NIH upon acceptance for Journal publication, for public archiving in PubMed Central as soon as possible but no later than 12 months after publication by Journal."

Again, please inform us of any applicable embargo up to the allowed 12-month delay. We will deposit the article in PMC.

We hope you will employ one of these options to help us comply with this federal mandate. However, because this is a requirement of current and future NIH funding that supports a great deal of research at the University of Kentucky, we must ensure that our authors comply with the NIH Public Access Policy. If you accept this article for publication and none of the above options have been implemented, we have instructed our authors to include the italicized passage above from the NIH as an additional term of any contract they sign and will proceed with depositing the article in PMC, as we are required to do.

Thank you for your consideration and cooperation in this matter.

Sincerely,
